

Dr Nigel Lyons is the Chief Executive of Hunter New England Health in NSW, one of 8 Area Health Services across NSW.

This position is responsible for all services across over 120 sites from small rural community health centres to major tertiary referral hospitals.

Nigel has over 20 years experience as a health service manager across metropolitan and rural service settings. He has a strong commitment to postgraduate education and training, as well as addressing the challenges in delivering health services to rural communities.

Over the last 8 years Dr Lyons has been extensively involved in the Hunter New England Health Clinical Innovation and Reform Program which has now completed over 30 projects across all aspects of the patient journey and health service delivery.